Instructions

Who fills out this form

The FHSA holder will fill out and sign Section 1. A transferor who fills out Section 1 for the holder can attach a signed letter from the holder requesting the direct transfer in place of the signature. If the transferor does not have all of the information about the current or former spouse's or common-law partner's FHSA, RRSP, or RRIF, the FHSA or RRSP issuer or RRIF carrier receiving the property can fill out Part D of Section 1. The form is then given to the FHSA or RRSP issuer or RRIF carrier that will be receiving the property.

If you are unable to get your current or former spouse's or common-law partner's signature, attach a copy of the decree, order or judgement of a competent tribunal, or the written agreement.

The FHSA or RRSP issuer or RRIF carrier receiving the property will fill out and sign Section 2, and will be countersigned by the current or former spouse or common-law partner. The FHSA or RRSP issuer or RRIF carrier receiving the property can attach a signed letter from the current or former spouse or common-law partner acknowledging the certification, in place of a countersignature. The form is then given to the transferor. Once the FHSA or RRSP issuer or RRIF carrier receives the property from the holder's FHSA and the form from the transferor, they will fill out and sign Section 4.

The transferor transferring the property from the holder's FHSA will fill out and sign Section 3. Once completed, the transferor will transfer the property from the FHSA and return the form to the FHSA or RRSP issuer or RRIF carrier of the current or former spouse or common-law partner for completion.

The transferor is required to review and keep in their file the decree, order, judgement or written separation agreement if they are unable to get the signature of both individuals on this form or attached letter.

Do not send a copy of this form to the Canada Revenue Agency (CRA) unless the CRA asks to see it.

Reporting requirements

The transferor should not issue a T4FHSA slip to the FHSA holder shown in Part A of Section 1 to record the amount transferred. The transferred amount is not required to be included in the FHSA holder's income.

The FHSA or RRSP issuer or RRIF carrier who receives the transfer should not issue a T4FHSA slip or RRSP contribution receipt for the amount transferred. The current or former spouse or common-law partner cannot deduct the amount transferred.

The amount transferred will not reduce the current or former spouse's or common-law partner's unused FHSA participation room or unused RRSP deduction room.

Exceptions for FHSA holders who have an excess FHSA amount at the time of the transfer

If the FHSA holder has an excess FHSA amount at the time of the transfer and the holder transfers property from their FHSA to their current or former spouse's or common-law partner's FHSA, RRSP or RRIF, any portion of the amount transferred that exceeds the total FMV of all the property held in all of the holder's FSAs at the time of the transfer minus the holder's excess FHSA amount at the time of the transfer, will be treated as both:

- a taxable withdrawal from the FHSA identified in Part B of Section 1, which must be included as income by the FHSA holder identified in Part A of Section 1, on the income tax and benefit return for the year of the transfer.
- a new contribution at the time of the transfer to the FHSA or RRSP by the current or former spouse or common-law partner identified in Part D of Section 1.

For more information, go to canada.ca/breakdown-marriage-common-law-fhsa.

Note: FHSA or RRSP issuers or RRIF carriers do not have any additional reporting requirements when an excess FHSA amount is included in the transfer.
